

SULTAN CITY COUNCIL
AGENDA ITEM COVER SHEET

ITEM NO: D - 2

DATE: May 10, 2007

SUBJECT: Animal Control Program - Regulations

CONTACT PERSON: Deborah Knight, City Administrator

SUMMARY:

The City Council has discussed the City's animal control program at a number of meetings since the beginning of the year and taken a number of legislative actions to reestablish an animal control program. One part of this process is to review the City's current animal control regulations.

The issue for the Council is to discuss and provide direction to staff on animal control regulations contained in Chapter 6 of the Sultan Municipal Code (Attachment A). For discussion purposes, Attachment A is a "mark-up" version of Chapter 6 highlighting areas where staff is seeking Council direction. The major policy questions for Council consideration include:

1. Section 6.04.020 Code Enforcement Officer – What should be the power and duties of the animal control officer ("code enforcement officer") and the officer's responsibility/ability to collect money?
2. Section 6.04.060 Potentially Dangerous Dogs – What is the City's process for declaring dangerous and potentially dangerous dogs?
3. Section 6.04.070 Dog License – The City's code only addresses dogs (not cats). The code does not differentiate between spayed and un-spayed animals. Does the City council want to create a tiered fee system to encourage neutering and spaying? Does the City Council want to have an annual license or provide for a longer time period (e.g. lifetime)? Does the Council want residents to license their cats as well as their dogs?

4. Section 6.04.100 Fees – The City provides that “residents 62 years or older shall be entitled to acquire a special permanent licenses for the lifetime of the dog with a maximum of three permanent animal licenses for any combination of three dogs.” The City Council may want to consider changing the “senior discount” option in the ordinance.
5. Section 6.04.110 through Section 6.04.150 Impound – How does the City Council want to handle animals that are impounded? The current practice is to temporarily “hold” animals in Sultan at the Public Works kennel until they can be transported by Snohomish County to the Everett Shelter.
6. Chapter 6.08 Horses – Does the City Council want to maintain the code section on horses which as added to the code in 1971?
7. Chapter 6.12 Animals at Large - Animals at Large is problematic because of the impound care-taking function. The code was originally written in 1908. There are references to “marshal” and “poundmaster” that are outdated. Does the City Council want to eliminate or revise this code section?
8. Chapter 6.16 Fowl Running at Large – What are the City’s needs in dealing with fowl? The code was originally written in 1915. This section is also problematic due to the references to impound requirements and sale and notice procedures. Does the City Council want to eliminate or revise this code section?

STAFF RECOMMENDATION:

Review and discuss policy questions regarding the City’s animal control regulations.

Direct staff to work with the City attorney to do a complete review and revision of the Animal ordinance to update the code sections based on current policy and eliminate conflicting and outdated sections.

BACKGROUND:

Chapter 6 of the Sultan Municipal Code seeks to address animal control issues. The Chapter has been amended and appended at various times throughout the City’s history starting as far back as 1908 (Animals Running at Large), 1915 (Fowl Running at Large), 1971 (Horses), and 1993 (Animal Control). While this section provides a unique look at Sultan's municipal history it does not provide for a well coordinate code section. The Council should consider reviewing Chapter 6 and consider a holistic evaluation and revision of this section. Some of the issues, such as replacing "code enforcement officer" with "animal control officer", may be housekeeping items. Other issues, such as license and fee requirements, are significant policy questions requiring careful consideration and analysis.

In 2006, the City Council discussed the need to develop and fund an animal control program to address a growing need in the Sultan community to license and control domestic animals. The intent of the City Council is to review and revise its animal control program in 2007. The proposed code evaluation is part of the City's legislative efforts to address animal control issues in Sultan.

DISCUSSION:

Animal Control Officer

City staff recommend changing Code Enforcement Officer to Animal Control Officer. For the most part, this is a housekeeping change. Code enforcement officers typically enforce regulations concerned with land use, zoning, surface water, and building standards. Code Enforcement Officers usually work out of the Planning or Building Department.

An animal control officer is charged with catching stray or loose dogs, cats, and sometimes other animals, and bringing them to a kennel or animal shelter. The role of the animal control officer has changed over the past few decades. Today's animal control officer focuses more on educating the public on proper animal care, and rescuing animals from dangerous or abusive situations. They also pick up dead or injured wildlife and stray animals for disposal or treatment. Usually the requirements for this job are a high school diploma, and some prior experience with animals. Training is done both on the job, and through the National Animal Control Association, which holds classes around the country.

Various statutes authorize municipalities to give designated employment positions, other than law enforcement officers, the authority to enforce laws, such as local animal control laws, that carry civil penalties (civil infractions). For example, RCW 7.80.040, dealing with civil infractions, defines "enforcement officer" as "a person authorized to enforce the provisions of the title or ordinance in which the civil infraction is established."

So, a city may give an animal control officer a "limited commission" to issue citations for civil infractions under the town's ordinances. A "commission" is, in the sense discussed here, merely formal evidence of an appointment. There are no statutorily-required procedures for granting a limited commission. The only requirements for an animal control officer would be those established by the city for the position.

Collecting costs and charges

Section 6.04.020 outlines the powers and duties of the code enforcement officer. Section (E) provides that the code enforcement officer "Shall receive and collect any costs and charges hereinafter provided by this chapter."

City staff recommend amending this section to provide that the City's finance department collect fees and charges for cash control and audit purposes.

Section 6.04.060 - Potentially Dangerous Dogs

City staff recommend updating Section 6.04.060 of the Sultan Municipal Code to be consistent with State law and adopt a hearing and appeal process per RCW 16.08.080 (Attachment C).

Under Ch. 16.08 RCW the state regulates "dangerous dogs" and imposes requirements and restrictions on the owners of such dogs. This law defines and makes a distinction between "dangerous dogs," which are to be regulated under the provisions of Ch. 16.08 RCW, and "potentially dangerous dogs," which are to be regulated by locally-adopted ordinances.

RCW 16.08.090(2) specifically recognizes that local governments will regulate potentially dangerous dogs and that state law does not limit those regulations. Thus, a city, town or county may adopt more rigorous requirements for potentially dangerous dogs than are suggested by the statutes.

Some cities, in adopting ordinances based upon Ch. 16.08 RCW, have modified the definition of "potentially dangerous dog" and/or "dangerous dog" to include reference to a specific breed such as the "pit bull terrier" breed. In these cities, the restrictions that apply to either "potentially dangerous dogs" or "dangerous dogs" are made to apply automatically to a specific breed.

A few cities have adopted ordinances that completely ban the ownership of particular breeds including pit bulls, wolf-hybrids, and others. The city of Yakima's ordinance banning pit bull terriers was challenged and upheld in American Dog Owners v. Yakima, 113 Wn.2d 213 (1989).

In the case of breed specific ordinances, local governments must be able to show that the breed has some unique traits and characteristics that pose a greater threat of serious injury or death to humans than other breeds. Breed-specific ordinances must also clearly define the particular breed being regulated so that owners or potential owners are given sufficient notice of requirements and violations.

Section 6.04.70 and Pet Licenses and Fees

City staff recommend the Council direct additional research on pet licensing alternatives and return to Council for further discussion and adoption of pet licensing fees.

According to AWC's 2006 Municipal Tax & User Fee Survey, 218 Washington cities and towns have some kind animal control licensing provisions.

A MRSC survey found that 21 counties have licensing provisions either countywide or in dog control zones. Licensing requirements vary. Some jurisdictions require only dogs be licensed, while others require licensing for for both dogs and cats. Some provide for optional registration for cats.

Licensing requirement generally provide lower fee incentives for animals that have been spayed or neutered, some require it as a condition of licensing.

Section 6.04.070 of the Sultan Municipal Code requires rabies inoculations for dogs. Rabies inoculations are also listed among the licensing requirements in the MRSC survey. The National Association of State Public Health Veterinarians (NASPHV) recommends that "Local governments should initiate and maintain effective programs to ensure vaccination of all dogs, cats, and ferrets and to remove strays and unwanted animals. Such procedures in the United States have reduced laboratory confirmed cases of rabies in dogs from 6,949 in 1947 to 76 in 2005. Because more rabies cases are reported annually involving cats (265 in 2005) than dogs, vaccination of cats should be required."

The City Council may want to consider requiring rabies inoculations for cats.

Section 6.04.100 Fees

Fees for the annual license are set by resolution. All charges and penalties are to be paid to the Sultan clerk/treasurer. Residents 62 years of age or older shall be entitled to acquire a special permanent license for the lifetime of the dog.

City staff recommend additional research and alternatives for fees following the City Council's discussion.

Impound

Sections 6.04.110 (Animal Control), Section 6.12.050-6.12.120 (Animals at Large), Section 6.16.020-6.16.040 (Fowl Running at Large)

The reference and use of City pound, city care taking functions, and city adoption of animals are confusing. The animal at large section and fowls at large section both discuss the city pound and city care taking and auction function. Some of these provisions are from 1908 and 1915.

Currently, the City has a temporary holding facility at the Public Works yard. All other "Holding" of dogs and cats is done through the Everett Animal Shelter.

The City should review and revise these code sections as necessary to reflect current practice.

Horses, Animals and Large, Fowl at Large

Animals at Large is a confusing because of the pound care taking function. Does the City Council want to retain these sections or remove them as no longer applicable to a growing suburban city?

FISCAL IMPACT:

Since this is a discussion of change the Chapter 6 of the Sultan Municipal Code, the fiscal impact is the cost for the code revisions. This project will require City Attorney time to research and review. City staff estimate the cost will be approximately $1500. It is unlikely that any increase in fees or licensing requirements will off-set the initial code revision costs in 2007. The money would need to come from General Fund revenues.

ANALYSIS:

The City of Sultan Animal Control program is a vital City service since many Sultan residents are pet owners and lovers. The mission of animal control is to provide protection and service to all members of the community, both animal and human.

Through proactive public education and interaction, the City of Sultan can increase citizen's knowledge of responsible pet ownership, and animal behavior; and decrease potential cases of diseases; reduce the number of lost and abandoned animals; eliminate incidents of animal aggression and animal abuse, and reunite lost animals with their human families.

In order to achieve the City Council's animal control goals, the City must update its animal control ordinances in Chapter 6 of the Sultan Municipal Code to reflect the changing nature of the Sultan community from rural to suburban.

ALTERNATIVES:

1. Review and discuss policy questions regarding the City's animal control regulations.

Direct staff to work with the City attorney to do a complete review and revision of the Animal ordinance to update the code sections based on current policy and eliminate conflicting and outdated sections.

2. Review and discuss policy questions regarding the City's animal control regulations. Direct staff to fix those sections of the code that are most problematic in the Council's opinion and address the other sections at a later date.

The concern with this alternative is a piece meal cut and paste revisions that appears to accomplish the goal may result in more confusion.

3. Review and discuss policy questions regarding the City's animal control regulations.
Do not make any changes to the code at this time.

RECOMMENDED ACTION:

Review and discuss policy questions regarding the City's animal control regulations.

Direct staff to work with the City attorney to do a complete review and revision of the Animal ordinance to update the code sections based on current policy and eliminate conflicting and outdated sections.
